

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A drain electrode of each TFT has an extension extending to the scanning line side or the signal line side, and 5 contact holes are formed above the extension. In this case, the contact holes are arranged along scanning lines. In a plan view, the contact holes are masked with a shielding layer of a color filter layer provided on a counter substrate.